The Government intend to overhaul the whole educational machine.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 3.—In the Liberal picnic held at Clearwater yesterday, Hon. Mr. Smart said it was the government's intention to overhaul the whole educational machine. The double-barrelled system must be abolished, the two superintendents, the two boards and trustees of spectors must go, and a Minister of Education will be appointed. A present minister taking the portfolio, who would administer the education department and be responsible to the people. Trouble in the Camp.

WINNIPEG, August 2.—A young Indian girl named Emma Simpson hanged herself to a tree because her mother married again to a man whom the girl did not like.

The Sun says a serious friction exists between Governor Schultz and the Ministers of the Crown. The ministers' Orders-in-council remained unsigned for weeks, the Ministers claim greatly to the injury of public business. It is rumored that the chief cause of the trouble is that the Governor orders supplies down town for Government House on his own responsibility and has the bills sent the Government for payment. This the Government objects to on the ground that the statute requires His Honor to make a requisition for what he wants and submit it to the Ministers for approval before anything is ordered. The Sun says there is a serious misunderstanding. It is said that a measure will be introduced at the next session of the legislature to abolish the jury system in civil cases in Manitoba; also that the Government will submit a measure abolishing the dual languages in Manitoba. Government documents only to be printed in one language. The Board of Education will be wiped out and the portfolio of Minister of Education will be created. This will do away with popular Superintendent of Education Somerset. It is the intention, it is said, to work a complete revolution in the entire system. Many other changes are hinted at in the working of the institutions of the province.

Conservative Chances.

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 2.—Lord Randolph Churchill made a speech here last night. He said that the Conservative party in Birmingham ought to receive a larger recognition than the dissidents appeared willing to accord. The elections ought not to proceed on the principle of men before measures. The Conservatives had a right to ask the dissidents to define decisively the platform on which the latter appeared to the electors. Otherwise the dissidents could not expect the Conservatives to vote for policies which apart from unionism the Conservative party would strongly and even desperately oppose. If the Conservatives chose to exert themselves, they would carry more than half the seats in Birmingham.

DUBLIN, Aug. 2.—President Harrison has sent a letter to Lord Mayor Sexton in reply to the Dublin Corporation's expression of sympathy for the sufferers by the Johnstown disaster. Please accept the warmest thanks of the President and the American people for the touching expressions of sympathy and generous gifts of the citizens of Dublin." Mr. Sexton states that the official envelope in which the letter was enclosed bore traces of having been melted and the envelope refastened with another kind of a gum, and the American crest on the envelope was defaced.

He argued that the charges against Dr. Tanner were not assault with violence, that it did not come under the Crimes act, and that therefore, the sentence was illegal. LIVERPOOL, Aug. 3.—At the resumption to-day of the trial of Mrs. Maybrick on a charge of poisoning her husband, Dr. Humphreys was called to the stand and in reply to prisoner's counsel said that if the idea of arsenical poisoning had not been suggested he would have made an affidavit on the basis of the autopsy performed on Mr. Maybrick's body that death had resulted from acute congestion of the stomach. He was unable to mention any post mortem symptoms in the case distinctive of arsenical poisoning which were not generally characteristic of gastric or gastritis enteritis.

An analyst testified that he had examined Mrs. Maybrick's clothing and had found traces of arsenic in a pocket of her dressing gown, upon one of her handkerchiefs and also upon an apron that she had worn.

MASON CITY, Iowa, July 31.—Weeley Elkins, eleven years old, who was under arrest on suspicion of having murdered his father and stepmother in Elk township, Clayton county, last Wednesday, yesterday confessed his guilt to Judge Hatch. He said that he had some difficulty with his father, and on the night of the murder slept in the barn. "Between two and three o'clock I went into the house," he said, "and took down a rifle which was hanging in the kitchen, loaded it and went into the room where my father, mother, and little sister were sleeping. I placed the muzzle of the rifle near my father's head and fired. This frightened my mother, and I went into the kitchen, seized a club, went back into the bedroom and killed her. I stayed around the house about thirty minutes, and then decided to arouse the neighbors. I took the baby from the bed, removed its blood-stained clothing and went to the neighbors and aroused them." The murderer bears an intelligent look and many now, notwithstanding his confession, believe that the story is told to hide someone else.

Robbed and Murdered.

HELENA, Mont. August 2.—News has reached Helena of a ghastly discovery made on Sun River. A few months ago a family of Flathead Indians left their reservation, crossed the mountains and went into the Sun River country to hunt. They were seen by one of their relatives, a half breed living on the Sun river, when they first arrived. Last week this half breed found one of their ponies in the possession of a white man, who claimed he had purchased the animal at Sun River. The half breed was satisfied that something was wrong and at once began a search for his relatives. He found their camp, which had been burned, and in it the charred remains of his relatives, a family of three or four. There is no doubt they were robbed of their horses and outfit, and murdered.

Forger Forger.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 3.—Through the efforts of President Harrison's wife, a convict in San Quinton prison, who was serving seven years' sentence for forgery, was pardoned this week by Governor Waterman. The man had been convicted of forgeries committed while intoxicated. Soon after President Harrison's nomination he wrote a poem entitled "The Old Soldiers" which was published in an evening paper. The poem described Gen. Harrison's bravery at the battle of Resaca in the rebellion. The poem was copied widely on this coast and soon after Harrison's election one of the prisoner's friends sent it to Mrs. Harrison, with a brief account of the convict author's good life in prison. She took an interest in him, and he has been pardoned. The released convict expressed great gratitude to Mrs. Harrison, and declares that her sympathy has made a man of him. His name is withheld, as he has the promise of a good position.

A Noted Visitor.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

The HERALD received a call today from M. D. McLean, M.P.P. of Virden, Man. Mr. McLean represents the riding of Dennis, which is the farthest west constituency of Manitoba. Mr. D. W. Moore has been showing Mr. McLean round the town and country some. The latter was rather pleased and surprised to find such an agricultural section here. He frankly admits that mistaken ideas have prevailed in Manitoba about Alberta. We have seen him to be a fair minded gentleman, who will tell the truth about what he saw out here. We are glad to learn from him that crop prospects have improved in Manitoba lately, and there will be a better yield than it was at one time feared.

Mr. Davin, M.P., has transmitted the petition from Maple Creek to the Hon. Mr. Dewdney on this subject. It is signed by J. W. Wood and thirty-one others and points out that Mr. Gouin stated he was ordered by the Department of the Interior to make these demands; that a large number had taken up claims in advance of survey; that a large number had never heard of permits being necessary to cut timber for a settler's own use; that most had not got the amount of timber under the regulations; that the first visit made by the Crown Timber Agent was in 1888, who then stated he thought the Government would not proceed against settlers who had cut timber solely for their own use; and the petition prays that the liability.—Regina Leader.

The Salmon Pack.

The Columbian of Saturday says:—The salmon catch last night was by long odds the largest since the run commenced. Some of the boats fishing opposite the city netted nearly 300 fish between five o'clock last night and five o'clock this morning, but many boats near the mouth of the river beat these figures with ease. At noon today the nets were hauled out, and will remain out till Monday morning at 6 o'clock, which will give the fish every opportunity to find their way inland. Millions of fish will pass up the river during the two days, and it seems, from a shortsighted standpoint, at least, almost a pity that they should pass uncaught. The salmon pack for the past week is estimated by competent judges to be fully 80,000 cases, and the total pack so far for the season fully 100,000 cases. The canneries are as busy as they can possibly be, and there are no complaints now of a lack of material to work on.

Dark Sky.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Yesterday was a peculiar day. In the morning it was so smoky that one could not see much more than the length of a block on Stephen Avenue, and so dark, parties who wanted to go out to see land in the country, did not go, for the reason that they could not see any distance. About one o'clock heavy clouds began to gather and rumblings of distant thunder were heard, and by 2:30 the sky was so overcast that combined with the smoke which had drifted down from the mountains, it was so dark that lamps had to be lit in the offices on Stephen Avenue. Shortly afterwards, large drops of warm rain began to fall, this soon grew into a heavy shower, accompanied by sharp lightning and heavy thunder. This lasted for a couple of hours, when the clouds passed off. The lamps were dispensed with and everyone went about their business, thankful for the warm rain and thankful that no harm had been done, though the sky had been the most threatening and the air the blackest that had ever been witnessed in Calgary.

Cork Screws.

Chicago is to gain by Calgary's loss in a way that few of our citizens would have dreamed of a short time ago. We will not go into all the details connected with the inception of the Cork Screw scheme, as perhaps the gentleman who was prime mover in the matter would rather not be brought before the public just now. Although there is nothing dishonorable in the matter as there was thought to be by some. In the famous excursion of the "Cork Screw Brigade" of the Ontario Government a few years ago. A Cork Screw has been patented by a Canadian, in the United States, which eclipses any time record for getting at the contents of a bottle. A company has been formed of Calgary business men with a capital of $50,000, a large portion of which is paid up. The company will have their headquarters at Chicago, Ill., where the manufacture of these lightning Cork Extractors will be carried on. The company will also manufacture in some southern city and probably in Montreal. The enterprise is a credit to Calgary; but the part we regret is that Calgary will lose two or three of its oldest, shrewdest, most energetic and most respected business men, and that $50,000 will be taken from our midst, which we would like to have once invested in some manufacture in this city, for which there is room here. However we believe there is a warm spot in all these gentlemen's hearts for Calgary, and when they have made their fortunes they will return to enjoy themselves in this grand climate.

Had to Lose His Life on His Bet.

Two Irish hod-carriers, who were employed on a five-story building which was nearly finished, got arguing as to who could carry the heaviest weight up the ladder to the top of the building, when, after much bargaining, Mick offered to bet Pat, a big burly Irishman, a quart of beer that he could carry him in his hod to the top. The bet was accepted, and Pat, mounting the hod, Mick hoisted it on his shoulders and began his task. All went well until nearing the top, when Mick's foot slipped and nearly ended in a calamity, but having regained his foothold he struggled to the platform, on the top of which he placed his burden, saying, "there now, I've done it, I've won the bet." "Ah," replied Pat, "am so ye have, but I'd great hopes when yer foot slipped."—Bradford.

Manitoba Man.
GREENA, Man., July 29, 1889.
J. G. FITZGERALD,
Calgary, Alberta.

Sir,—I hear by reports that frost has done a great deal of damage in your district. Be good enough to write me all details. My friends have almost given up their intention of moving, if the news should be true.

Yours truly,
CORNELIUS HIEBERT.

The above report is false in every respect and is one more sample of hellish falsehood so often told by Manitobans about this country. We have no quarrel with the people of Manitoba about their country, but we have a quarrel with such barefaced lying as the above. The people of Manitoba cannot reasonably expect that they will escape the judgments of God in the shape of drouth, grasshoppers or frost till they quit their foolish and malicious lying about Alberta. There are a few places in Alberta where the rain was late coming, but generally speaking, the crops are simply magnificent and there has been absolutely no frost.

Frost in Calgary.

To the Editor of the HERALD.

SIR,—In reference to the letter of Mr. Halbert, of Greena, which appeared in your issue of yesterday regarding frosts in this district, I beg to say that only on one occasion since the 10th May last has the thermometer registered below freezing point, and that was on the night of the 6th of June, when it registered 2 degrees of frost.

I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,

Agricultural Show.

To the Editor of the HERALD and ALBERTA LIVE STOCK JOURNAL.

SIR,—The time is now rapidly approaching when the Agricultural Show will be on and we beg to ask for space in your paper to call the attention of the City Council to the necessity of having something done at once to put the road from the town to the show grounds in some kind of passable condition. Since the last show was held, McTavish Street, which was the centre thoroughfare from the city to the grounds, has been closed by the C. P. R. and we are now obliged to fall back upon Osler Street. Much work has been done, it is true, on that street, in the way of making a good bottom of stone and gravel, but it is fearfully rough to drive over. It seems to me that a couple of men with plough and scraper could cut down the high land close to the gravelled places and spread it so as to make the road good, in two or three days work. Then, in all conscience, there should be a sidewalk laid from the track southward as far as the Second Avenue. To let the street remain as it is, to the inconvenience of our own people and to make us laughed at by the hosts of visitors we all hope to see here at the show, would be really too bad. Please insert this in the HERALD, and oblige

A. PEDERSEN.

Who is to Blame?

To the Editor of the HERALD.

SIR,—It appears as though the Dominion Government must have some Devil incarnate whose sole duty it is to watch carefully and continually for some cause or excuse and when none exist, to invent some scheme to harass and annoy the settler and to make him feel as discontented and dissatisfied as possible with the country and its laws. Just as soon as one thing is settled and the farmer begins to feel at home and comfortable, some agent or officer of the Dominion Government pops up with some letter or circular that he has the honor by instructions received from some one of the departments to address to the settlers in general, demanding some most unreasonable thing to be done or complied with.

The latest is a letter received from the Crown Timber Agent, at Calgary, demanding payment of dues on all timber cut by the settlers since the time the Territories were purchased from the H. Bay Co., in date, for which they have not now in their possession a permit from the said Crown Timber Agent, and if the same is not paid at once, double dues will be charged "dam you."

The early settlers used the dead timber because it was light to handle for their houses and fences, and if they had not used it, it would have been burned up long ago, and not only that but it would help to burn the green, standing timber. The fact that it was cut and drawn away was an actual benefit to the country, and it is an outrage on the settlers to now demand payment of the dues and it will be resented to the bitter end by the farmers of Alberta.

Can't you, Mr. Editor, have the matter brought before the Minister of the Interior when he comes to the country this summer, and try, in the interest of the settlers, to have this most objectionable order rescinded?

Yours truly,
FARMER.

[From Friday's Daily.]

An enquiring traveller from "Bruce" stepped off No. 1 express at the Calgary station this morning and put some pointed questions to a HERALD reporter. This gentleman evidently did not mean to go back to Bruce with his finger in his mouth unable to tell about the wide west. He began by asking if there had been much frost yet.

"Yes," said the reporter, "we had a heavy frost on the 17th of March, but it is all gone now."

"Yes," said the man, "but is there much ice yet?"

"Oh, yes," said the reporter, "the Calgary Cartage Company and the Calgary Ice Company have quite a lot, but if this hot weather continues their stock won't last long."

"How about the buffalo, if a fellow was to stop till the next train could he get any buffalo meat at the tavern?"

The reply was that he thought not, but he might be able to get a few horns at 25 cents a pull.

"If there is no buffalo meat, how do you get anything to eat?"

"Oh!" said our man, "we grow oxen in hot houses you see and we get our 'greens' from Bruce."

"Looks as though there must be quite a few people live here 800 or 900 'spose'?"

"Yes," said the reporter, "we have about that many whiskey sellers and this a prohibition country."

Bruce remounted the train saying he would not stay over till he got to Castle Mountain or some of the big places mentioned on the Northern Pacific map of this country.

Frogs in Dakota.

That Calgary will be a city in the near future no one will doubt. The last comitant of a city having made its appearance is town this morning. We refer to the hand organ which is being perambulated the streets on wheels gridding out old familiar melodies like "Dixie". But there is a sad and solemn lesson connected with the advent of this hand organ to Calgary. The remains of the man who is manipulating the thing is named David Charbonneau, having been killed by the glorious fair-foots told about Dakota. He went there to seek land on which to make a home for himself and his wife and family on the 7th of January, 1877, he made a start from Grand Forks in the Red River country to prospect. He had been but a short time out when he was overtaken by one of those fearful storms of which Dakota is the natural birth place and home. Though young and strong he soon became bewildered by the blinding blizzard and wandered round for three days, till finally overcome he had lain him down to die, providentially he was scented by some Indian dogs. The dogs barked and howled so that their noise attracted the Indians to whom the dogs belonged, to the spot where Charbonneau was lying more than half dead. They Indians understanding well what was best to do, set to work to rub his frozen limbs with snow and do all else they could for the suffering man. They put him on a sled and drew him by hand to Moorehead, from which place he was taken to Minneapolis, and tenderly cared for in the hospital for seven months before he could move. He is now a real object of charity, both hands, his feet and the lower part of both legs being gone. The poor fellow manages to turn the crank of his music box with the stumps of his hands. There is a moral in this and each equal to any in Esop's Fables, which all eastern men should consider well, viz., that if they want homes in the new west they should seek them in the temperance climate and on the rich prairie of Alberta, where coal is as plenty as grasshoppers in Dakota.

A Decided Success.

The Lawn Social given by the ladies of the Methodist Church last Thursday was very successful. Mr. R. A. Jones placed his home at the disposal of the ladies, and he and his family did everything possible to aid the enterprise. Nearly every family in the congregation cheerfully rendered every possible assistance. The grounds were illuminated and a large company representing every church in Calgary, thoroughly enjoyed the evening. A programme of instrumental and vocal selections enlivened the proceedings, and a recitation by Rev. Mr. Wise of the Baptist Church, was well received. Refreshments in great variety and at moderate figures were readily sold. The gross receipts amounted to $9.05.

THE MAIL ON A CALGARY MAN.

"The Mail" says the founder of the National Policy, now writing for the Herald, in Calgary, should certainly be able to explain how the government can do justice to the millers without reducing the wheat duty or increasing the duty on flour. Just to take the proposition of the Mail as it is, it does seem a complex question to solve, one indeed, which would have puzzled the "Mail" itself even before it "fell from grace." About as difficult as the question that was agitating quite a number of minds in Toronto when the writer met Mr. Bunting on the 16th of March, 1884. The National Policy, nor its suggestor, nor Sir John does not, nor did the Mail before it lost its senses, attempt anything impracticable or unpatriotic. Not being a practical miller, the writer must depend to a large extent on the evidence of millers as to the material facts in the case. The millers themselves recently assembled in Toronto, were not a unit. We confess we did not have time to wade through all the reports of the proceedings of the Millers' Convention. The farmer is as much entitled to protection as anyone else. If the duty on wheat was any injury to the mechanic or laborer, then it would be a question worth discussing whether the duty should remain on wheat or not; but when the general result of the trade policy is to give the mechanic and laborer steady work at fair prices which he would not be sure of if we had no trade policy. Then he is better off with that policy as it stands, than without it. None can deny the general benefit to Canada and the immeasurable benefits that the United States have derived from the same policy. The exact amount of duty to be charged may vary according to circumstances.

On the flour duty question we have this to say, that from frequent conversations with millers on this subject, when we were in Ontario we were given to understand that the duty on a barrel of flour is something less than on the amount of wheat it takes to make a barrel of flour. If this be the case, there would appear to be a discrimination in favor of the American miller. There being more wheat raised in Canada than is consumed, Canada must look for a market for part of what she raises, either ground or unground, in competition with the United States in the English market. It seems to us the question then really is, what policy will give the most work for our millers? We think the duty on wheat and flour should be as nearly equal as possible. It is certainly desirable to have as much foreign wheat ground in the country as possible, and if the Canadian miller exports flour equal to what wheat he imports, the country must be benefitted and neither the producer or consumer injured. The "Mail" says probably Sir John would like to see the gentleman who writes for the Herald, again. Well, Sir John often sees him through the Herald. For instance, when he wanted a Minister of the Interior to fill the place of the Hon. Thomas White, the writer "suggested" to Sir John through the Herald that the Hon. E. Dewdney should be appointed. We forwarded to Sir John's private residence a copy of a certain issue of the Herald with our writing on that subject and we received a telegraph order from Sir John for fifty copies of that issue. We got our nominee appointed.

ALFALFA.

The plant known and called alfalfa by the Spanish, and by the French, lucerne, has been grown exclusively for many years in the southwest under the name of Chilian, or California clover.

Its botanical name Medicago sativa, from the Greek, Medike, is derived from that language, meaning fodder plant. It was known by the Greeks and Romans

2,300 years ago, and was used as a forage before the Christian era.

Columella, Virgil and Cato, speak of it in their writings. When the Roman Empire flourished it furnished food for the war horses. Grecian cattle cropped it upon the hillside, and the Spanish cavalier fed his horse upon it. The Romans brought it from Media 470 B. U., hence its generic name.

It was introduced into Mexico in the time of the Conquest; thence into South America, and from Chili into California in 1884, where it has been grown more successfully and in greater quantities than elsewhere. It found its way into Colorado in the sixties, having been raised for the first time in the states in the Platte valley near Denver.

It flourishes at all altitudes below 7,000 feet, and in all soils that produce other good crops. Sandy and clay loams are best adapted to its habits. Soils underlaid with shale, or hard pan, are not conducive to its successful growth, inasmuch as the roots of the plant must penetrate the sub-soil until they find moisture. Where surface drainage is good, and the land not too wet or too alkaline, it readily secures a stand, and the first season makes a crop of one or two tons per acre.

It is the most tenacious of all forage plants, enduring more harsh treatment, more dry weather, heat and cold, after making a stand, than any of the others. It is, indeed, "a child of the sun," defying the hottest sun, the driest soils and the greatest variations of temperature—in fact, it keeps fresh and green while all other plants dry up and die around it.

Its growth is exceedingly rapid. In some soils and under certain conditions it makes a growth of thirty to forty-five inches in a month, and in some localities a cutting every month in the summer season. The first cutting is ready about the middle of June—just before blooming—and is considered the best for working team, inasmuch as it contains more fattening elements, and hence is a stronger food. The second crop is cut in July, and the third in September, and if the fourth is cut, it is ready in October. The second crop, and particularly the third, is better for milk cows, and animals that do not work, inasmuch as it is more succulent, contains fewer coarse stems and is more easily masticated.

The feeding value, as seen in the tables given, is clearly demonstrated in practical feeding. No other clover, grass and forage plant compares with it, or contains a greater per cent of protein substances.

Horses grow fat on it alone; cattle make fat, flesh and milk; sheep thrive and are perfectly healthy when fed on it, and even hogs, when pastured on it, need no other food.

The preparation of the soil for sowing alfalfa is about the same as for clover, turnips or other small seeds; if quite moist, good stands are secured, on the raw soil merely by harrowing, or drilling the seed. The condition of the soil is everything, in rapid and successful germination. Being a rapid grower, and very succulent, it requires a large amount of moisture to start it successfully and keep it growing until well rooted, as when once rooted it is safe.

The amount of seed per acre necessary to secure a good stand for hay, is twenty to twenty-five pounds; for seed, twelve to fifteen pounds are sufficient. As the plant bears its seeds so differently from red clover, thick seeding is detrimental to the propagation of a large yield on account of its growing not on the top like red clover, but upon the entire plant, from bottom to top. For hay, the seed on sandy soil should be sown alone; on clayey, clayey soil, wheat, oats or barley in small quantities can be sown with it for shade. Timothy and orchard grass, when sown with alfalfa, serve to keep it from lodging, and when in sufficient quantities, they become a preventive of hoven in the feeding and pasturing of cattle and sheep. The seed should be sown with a drill, as it is much more evenly and uniformly distributed, and after drilling, a light harrowing cross-wise assists in an even stand, and hastens germination. The time to sow depends very much on the soil and climate. So soon as all fear of frost is gone and the soil is moist and warm, sow—about April 20th to May 6th. Even earlier sowing has proved very successful in some soils and seasons, especially where it is done in old wheat or oat stubble, without previous preparation.

Alfalfa should be cut just before blooming, somewhat earlier than red clover. At that stage of its growth the plant contains the greatest amount of valuable feeding substances.

When slightly wilted it should be raked into windrows, and then put into small cocks to be cured. If left to cure before raking, the stems become hard and dry, the leaves drop off, the color is lost, and much of the hay is rendered unfit for feed. Curing is the most important operation in making alfalfa hay.

On the low land, where the roots have access to moisture continually, alfalfa needs little or no irrigation. When water is applied, it should be done before cutting, for two reasons—it stimulates the growth of the next crop and in the cutting the mower does its work much better and more effectively, the stems being more pliable and easily cut.

In the experience of many farmers, alfalfa is the best renovator and the best green crop for fertilizing soils of any kind far tried. It not only kills all noxious weeds, but put into the soil in quantities has manurial elements found to be invaluable to the growth of any crop. Many experiments among farmers, but not at the experiment station, have proved it to be fifty per cent better than red clover. The roots being very large and long, not only enrich, but make the soil porous and well suited, not only to its own growth, but the growth of any other plant.

Just why alfalfa has, when fed green or wet, a greater tendency to bloat cattle and sheep than other forage, has not yet been fully or satisfactorily explained. Whether it is due to the alkali of the soil absorbed by the plant, or to its very succulent growth, or to its quality, remains yet to be demonstrated. It is a fact that it is a dangerous pasture for cattle and sheep, unless the weather is very dry, or unless the stock are first fed with dry feed before being driven upon it.

To conclude, we believe alfalfa to be the best forage plant for Colorado, and the whole arid region, for the following reasons:

1. It is easy to raise and secure a fine stand of plants, if the soil be put in proper condition.
2. Its staying qualities are good, as the oldest fields show no diminution in growth or yield; neither does it kill by winter exposure, if given the least care and irrigation at the proper time.
3. The quantity produced by the many cuttings make it much more valuable than the other clover or grasses.
4. It is as digestible as clover hay, constituting by constituent.
5. Its chemical composition shows that it is a rich, strong food, when properly cured.
6. Its feeding qualities are excellent, being relished by all farm animals.

STOCK.

Canadian Cattle in England.

Alderman Frankland has just presented a striking object lesson to Canadian cattle breeders and feeders of the great advantages they now reap from their free entry into British markets. Writing from Liverpool on June 13th, he points out that while good United States bullocks from two to four years old, weighing from 1,300 to 1,550 lbs. average, have been sold in Liverpool at from 3 to 4 shillings, 85 cents to 4 dollars, 25 cents per hundred live weight, Canadian shipping cattle were at the same time being bought from 4 to 5 shillings, 50 cents to 5 dollars per hundred; and, he adds, "I am sorry to say the Canadians were not so good a sample." How, it may be asked, can this inequality exist? Simply because Canadians, by their clean bill of health and the inestimable privilege they enjoy of free access for live cattle into British markets, realize from one half-penny to three-farthings per pound more than United States exporter, and these low prices for United States stock are likely to be maintained, and this is especially felt during the Canadian shipping season, from the beginning of May to the end of August. But by their system of early maturity, United States breeders and feeders can build up a two-year-old steer to weigh 1,300 pounds, living weight, and when slaughtered produce or turn out 734 pounds of beef, the very weights sought after in every part of Great Britain, and not only wanted in preference to large carcasses, but sold at a slight advance. To Canadians, then, Alderman Frankland addresses this pertinent query: Why not follow the United States example—why keep your animals longer than necessary if by care and attention you can save twelve and even twenty months feed? Until this is done Canadians will, he thinks, fail to do their best in British markets, and fail to find the full profit to which the quality of their fat cattle, and the immunity of their herds from disease, should entitle them.

This is sound, and may well be taken to heart by Canadian breeders. It is only fair, however, to remember that for many years past Mr. Dyke, the Canadian Government agent at Liverpool, has given similar counsel in his reports to the Minister of Agriculture. In his report for 1888, for instance, we find the following:—

deed in all the markets, the feature which presents itself most vividly to the visitor is early maturity, and I would impress its importance upon Canadian farmers and stock-raisers. The day for heavy old fat beasts and sheep has passed, and the farmer who can turn on a head of the best quality the same weight in any five months as he did formerly in twelve, five years effects a great saving, and benefits not only himself, but the country in which he lives.

In view of the facts which Alderman Frankland brings to light as to the advantages which Canadian exports from Liverpool present immunity from disease, it is not surprising that other countries should be desirous of coming within the charmed circle. It will be remembered that the British Government actually decided in the spring to extend to the Netherlands the privileges which Canada now enjoys, and of this decision we shall hear again very shortly, unless the operation of the new Order-in-Council be again postponed from September in deference to the wishes of British agriculturists. The matter does not, however, rest here. A question which Mr. Knowles, of the Bill for the regulation of horse-flesh fame, has put upon the paper of the House of Commons for today (Thursday), shows that the retail meat-traders are desirous that the privilege of importing live stock should be extended to the United States, Spain and Belgium, seeing that "according to good information, cattle disease does not prevail in these countries. Of course, this immunity from disease would have to be very clearly proved, and even then we doubt whether the influence of the British agricultural interests, focussed and strengthened as they will shortly be by the creation of a Minister of Agriculture, would permit of any compliances with the request."—Canadian Gazette.

Grief Killed Him.

The emotional life of the horse is remarkable. There are instances on record where the death of the horse has been traced directly to grief. One instance which occurred more than twenty years ago is related. A circus had been performing in the little town of Unionville, Pa., when one of the trained horses sprained one of his legs so that he could not travel. He was taken to the hotel and put in a box stall. The leg was bandaged, and he was made as comfortable as possible. He ate his food and was apparently quite contented until about midnight, when the circus began moving out of town. Then he became restless, and ramped and whinnied. As the caravan moved out past the hotel he seemed to realize that he was being deserted, and his anxiety and distress became pitiful. He would stand with his ears pricked in an attitude of intense listening, and then as his ear caught the sound of the retiring wagons he would rush, as best he could, with his injured leg from one side of the stall to the other, pushing at the door with his nose and making every effort to escape. The stableman, who was a stranger to him, tried to soothe him, but to no purpose. He would not be comforted. Long after all sounds of the circus had ceased his agitation continued. The sweat poured from him in streams, and he quivered in every part of his body. Finally the stableman went to the house, woke up the proprietor, and told him he believed the horse would die if some of the circus horses were not brought back to keep him company. At about daylight the proprietor mounted a horse and rode after the circus. He rode ten or twelve miles away, and the groom who had charge of the injured horse returned with him. When they reached the stable the horse was dead. The stableman said that he remained for nearly an hour perfectly still, and with every sense apparently strained to the utmost tension, and then, without making a sign, fell and died with scarcely a struggle. The veterinary who was called remarked, after the circumstances were told him, that unquestionably the horse died from grief. If it is possible for the faculties of the horse to become abandoned to grief to such an extent as to cause death, how much more does he appeal to the sympathy and regard of mankind?—National Stockman and Farmer.

Boarders Wanted.

The British Columbian says that word received from Kamloops and Nicola Valley is to the effect that grasshoppers are devastating the whole country, and that gentlemen from there had been in the city offering their cattle to the butchers very cheap as there was not a blade of grass for them to eat. Send your cattle over to Alberta, gentlemen. We have lots of grass and to spare. If it will pay to send thousands of cattle from Ontario to Alberta, surely it will pay to send them from Kamloops. When we suggested the shipment of our grass beef to Vancouver last March, Supt. Brown of the C. P. R., Vancouver, took the matter up and arranged practicable rates at once. No doubt the C. P. R. would do so in this case also.

GENERAL.

Women's Rights.

By way of "hials for women voters," a story about two American young ladies is recorded, called the "Sucker girls," whatever that may mean. Driving a buggy on a plank road, they were stopped by a turnpike man and asked for the toll. "How much is it?" demanded one of the Misses Sucker. "For a man and a horse," replied the gatekeeper. "The charge is 50 cents," "W R, then," replied the usual answer Sucker, got out of the way, for were two gals and a mare. Git up, Jenny. And away they went, leaving the tax-collector in mute astonishment.—Sleaford.

Examinations.

Tomorrow, August 6th, at 6 a.m., commences the annual examination for certificates to teach in the Territories. These examinations are held at the most central and convenient point in each Inspectorate, that for central Alberta will be conducted at the school house, Calgary, commencing at the hour named.

By revised ordinance, the second school term for the year commences on Monday, 12th inst. It will be remembered that a list of those having passed successfully the required examination for high school entrance in June last at Calgary, was published a short time ago, consequently the trustees of our Protestant School in accordance with an ordinance providing for the same purpose, establishing next term, a High School branch in the school under their care. Such schools will be known as Union school.

Grain Samples.

We have been favored by Mr. Carney with samples of his growing crops. All our local readers know where Mr. Carney's farm is, but to those at a distance we mention that his arable fields are just about one and a half miles from Calgary post office. The barley brought us by Mr. Carney is six rowed, it measures four feet and though not yet turning, has a large well filled head. The wheat is of the Ladoga variety, last year Mr. Carney sowed 23 pounds of this wheat and reaped 341 pounds. The wheat is now four feet six inches long and has a very large well filled head. He also brought in two kinds of oats, the rotato (at which measures four feet, and the Early Wellcome Oat which measures three feet six inches, both of these are fine healthy specimens with splendid heads, which will from appearances, turn out ninety bushels to the acre by weight.

Mrs. Macduff.

The Princess Louise, grand daughter of the Queen, who was married a week ago, was very moderate in the cost of her wedding tressau, the whole affair only costing $150,000. Some New York ladies will spend that much on a dress to attend a ball and then a single evening. But it was the bride's cake which was extravagant, it was six feet high and weighed 150 pounds. The Princess cut and distributed the cake herself amongst the guests. The cake being six feet high, the question arises how the dainty lady got at it, did she stand on a chair, did she use a scaling ladder, or cut away at the bottom and let it down by degrees? The man the Princess married is a MacDuff, who is rich and traces his family record back for nearly 500 years in Scotland. One of his ancestors was the genuine MacDuff, who killed McBeth and continues to kill him wherever he meets him in any part of the world to the present day.

Sidewalks.

Mr. P. A. Prince, manager of the Eau Claire and Bow River Mills, has made an offer to the chairman of public works to furnish all the lumber that may be needed for sidewalks in Calgary this year at the same price and terms of delivery as he furnished it at last year, and wait till the taxes are collected for his pay, without interest. The lumber is the chief item of cost, in building sidewalks. The nails, especially when wire spikes are used, is but a small matter. The cost of labor is about eight cents a foot on an average for wide walks, so that even if the labor had to be paid for at once, the present outlay would be small. The sum of $1,800 was voted in the estimates for public works for the last nine months of the year, not over one quarter of which has been spent. The work can be done in the summer to great advantage as compared with the fall. The experience of putting down sidewalks and grading when the ground was frozen and more or less snow on the ground, last year was very unsatisfactory.

Ventilating a Hay Stack.

The internal ventilation of an outside hay stack will add materially to its preservation. A simple and effective method of ventilating may be contrived thus: On the spot selected for your stack erect three strong stakes or posts, the lower ends fixed firmly in the ground about two to three feet apart, the upper ends joined to gether. On and around this triangular structure build your stack. But before doing so lay a pole on blocks along the ground from the centre of the triangle to the mark designed for the outer size of the stack. This will serve as a diel for the admission of air to the interior. Besides serving as a ventilator the structure described will not only help to support the stack, but prevent it sinking at the centre or becoming lopsided. It will likewise tend to preserve that gradual slope of the side which is so useful to carry off rain. The air duct may be made, if preferable, in the shape of a V trough and placed mouth downward, the outer opening being covered with wire screen or slatted, to keep out vermin.

Changed Offices.

Sir John Lister Kaye moved his business from the old frame building opposite Glenville & Co.'s clothing house, Friday to James A. Loughheed's new stone block opposite the Herald office. His new offices are on the upper flat on the east side of this fine building. The offices now occupied by Sir John's staff are large, airy and tasty. They will be found much more convenient and pleasant than the old ones. The chief feature connected with moving the furniture from one office to the other was handling the huge safe, which is a pretty good sized one, weighing 3 tons one hundred pounds. However, the job was accomplished in about an hour by Mr. J. G. McCallum, contractor, who took the huge iron box up without a hitch.

Eastern Callers.

Mr. W. Powell, a retired farmer of the County of Waterloo, Ont., now residing at the beautiful village of Elmira, gave the Herald a call today. Mr. Powell is one of a party of gentlemen on a trip partly for pleasure, but chiefly for the purpose of finding out for themselves the solid truth about Alberta. He says so many conflicting reports have been circulated in the east about this country, that those desirous of moving to a new country have been at a loss to know whether to come here or go to some part of the Western States. The visit of these gentlemen now is due in part at least, to the good word taken back about Alberta by some of the Jane excursionists to Calgary. On being shown samples of grain brought in from Dr. Lindsay's farm this morning, he remarked, "Yes, you could, no doubt, raise good grain if the frost would let it mature." No doubt he had heard some of the flimsy stories told to the Mennonites at Gretna about frost here, which were exposed in the Herald the other day. Giant liars of Manitoba, you may bluff some and no doubt have stopped many from coming here, have driven many intending Alberta settlers to the States, but it won't last. We are getting the truth out in spite of you.

Our Fire Appliances.

The Herald had a pleasant call on Saturday from ex-alderman W. W. Farley, of Toronto. Mr. Farley is a member of the Toronto Rubber Co. and is travelling in the interest of that firm. To show that Mr. Farley is an authority on fire appliances, we mention that he was ten years a member of the Toronto city council, and was for a good part of that period chairman of the fire and water committee. The ex-alderman is making a round trip going out via the Northern Pacific and returning by the C.P.R. It is quite natural for an old fire chairman who is now interested in selling fire hose, to look pretty closely into the character of the fire fighting apparatus wherever he goes. On Saturday morning he made a careful examination of the Calgary fire hall, engines, hose, &c., and volunteered the statement that there is nothing in the Territories to compare with our outfit. In fact that there was nothing in any of the western towns except Victoria, which is anything like as good. He mentioned that when the additional sleeping room for firemen is completed in the hall, the town may well feel safe and be proud of their fire hall and fighting power.

Baseball Tournament.

The Club to Hold one During Race Week.

At a meeting of the Calgary Baseball Club at the Institute last night, letters and telegrams were read by Secretary Linton, inviting the club to participate in a tournament at Moosejaw on the 15th September. The Qu'Appelle, Regina, Medicine Hat, Moosomin, Lethbridge and Moosejaw Clubs are expected to compete, and the first prize is to be $150, second $75. After some discussion it was deemed advisable, considering the cost of journey and preparations would entail, to decline the invitation, and a motion was made to hold a tournament in this city during the week of the races, which are advertised for the 9th and 10th prox.

A committee composed of Messrs. Shelton, A. Cayin, Peers, Watson and Kerr, were appointed to solicit subscriptions to defray the expenses of the event, and other arrangements made to ensure its being a success. No doubt our citizens will subscribe liberally towards this additional attraction to the race week.

A challenge from the Keith Baseball Club to a match on the Calgary grounds today, was also read and accepted, and a committee drafted to select more suitable grounds on the vacant lands south of the track. This has been done this morning, and all is now in readiness for what promises to be an exciting contest. The game will commence at 2:30 this afternoon. Captain Gouin has selected the following team to represent Calgary: Young, E., Pitcher; Dougall, Catcher; Perry, First; Gouin, Second; Watson, Third; Jordan, Short; Kerr, Centre; Kinastien, Left; Pritchard, Right; Halliday, Spare.

(Just as we go to press it is learned that that the Keith team are unable to come today, owing to not receiving the acceptance of their challenge in time. They intimate that they can arrange for next Saturday if convenient to our boys. A "scratch match" will, however, take place on the new grounds south of the track, this afternoon.)

Higher Education.

A meeting of the Calgary Protestant School Board was held in one of the parlors of the Royal Hotel last evening at 8 o'clock. The whole board consisting of Dr. J. D. Lafferty, James Reilly and Alex Lucas were present. By previous arrangement a number of persons interested in the introduction of higher education in connection with our town schools were present. After some discussion on this important movement, the following gentlemen were appointed a delegation to wait formally on the Calgary School Board at a very early day, when they will present a petition to our local school board asking them to take steps to further the movement. The following gentlemen comprise the committee: Rev. A. W. F. Cooper, Rev. J. C. Herdman, Rev. J. J. Leach, Mayor Marsh, A. McBride, H. Douglas, W. L. Barnard, Inspector Blair and T. B. Braden. It is the intention of this delegation to petition the local School Board to memorialize the Board of Education at Regina to make such regulations as will eventually permit of an additional department being added to the union public schools. (This is after we accomplish the establishment of a grammar school in connection with our schools,) which will provide for teaching the fine arts to the young ladies of Calgary and the surrounding country, and which would be of a standard that would secure the attendance of young ladies from other towns in Alberta, thus enabling all who may desire to avail themselves of the opportunity to procure as good an education in all the fine arts as they could in any of the ladies colleges in Eastern Canada.

TERRITORIAL.

North Saskatchewan Missions.

STANLEY MISSION, Sask., July 9.—The Bishop of Saskatchewan and Calgary who has during the past two months been visiting many of the parishes in his extensive diocese, arrived at Stanley on Thursday last. His lordship has been accompanied through the greater part of his journey by the Ven. Archdeacon J. McKay, D.D., whose great knowledge of the country and perfect mastery of the Cree language, have enabled him to render invaluable assistance in the work.

On Friday His Lordship inspected the school and on Sunday besides the usual services and celebration of Holy Communion, the churchyard of Trinity Church was consecrated and the rite of confirmation administered to sixty-three candidates who had been previously prepared by the Rev. Rodk. McLennan, missionary in charge. A collection amounting to over $40 was devoted to enlarging the endowment fund of Trinity Church.

On Monday, the 18th July, the party left for Cumberland, and will proceed from there to Moose Lake, the Pass, Chimaha, Grand Rapids and Fort la Corne, and return to Prince Albert in time for the Synod, which will be held August 28th.

There has been a good deal of sickness among the Indians at this place during the spring and summer, but so far no deaths have occurred. The disease appears to be a species of influenza.
